

OUR MILITARY

Our Military - assist the unassisted, help the helpless, and provide for those who have not been provided for at least as much as before ~

Our Military - protect the unprotected, provide aid to the previously unaided, and help some to thrive who have not been thriving of late in their precarious state ~

Our Military - lift those who have a weight too great, who need to once more be empowered in their own lives, and who are in need of a corrected course away from their darkest times or situational tangled vines ~

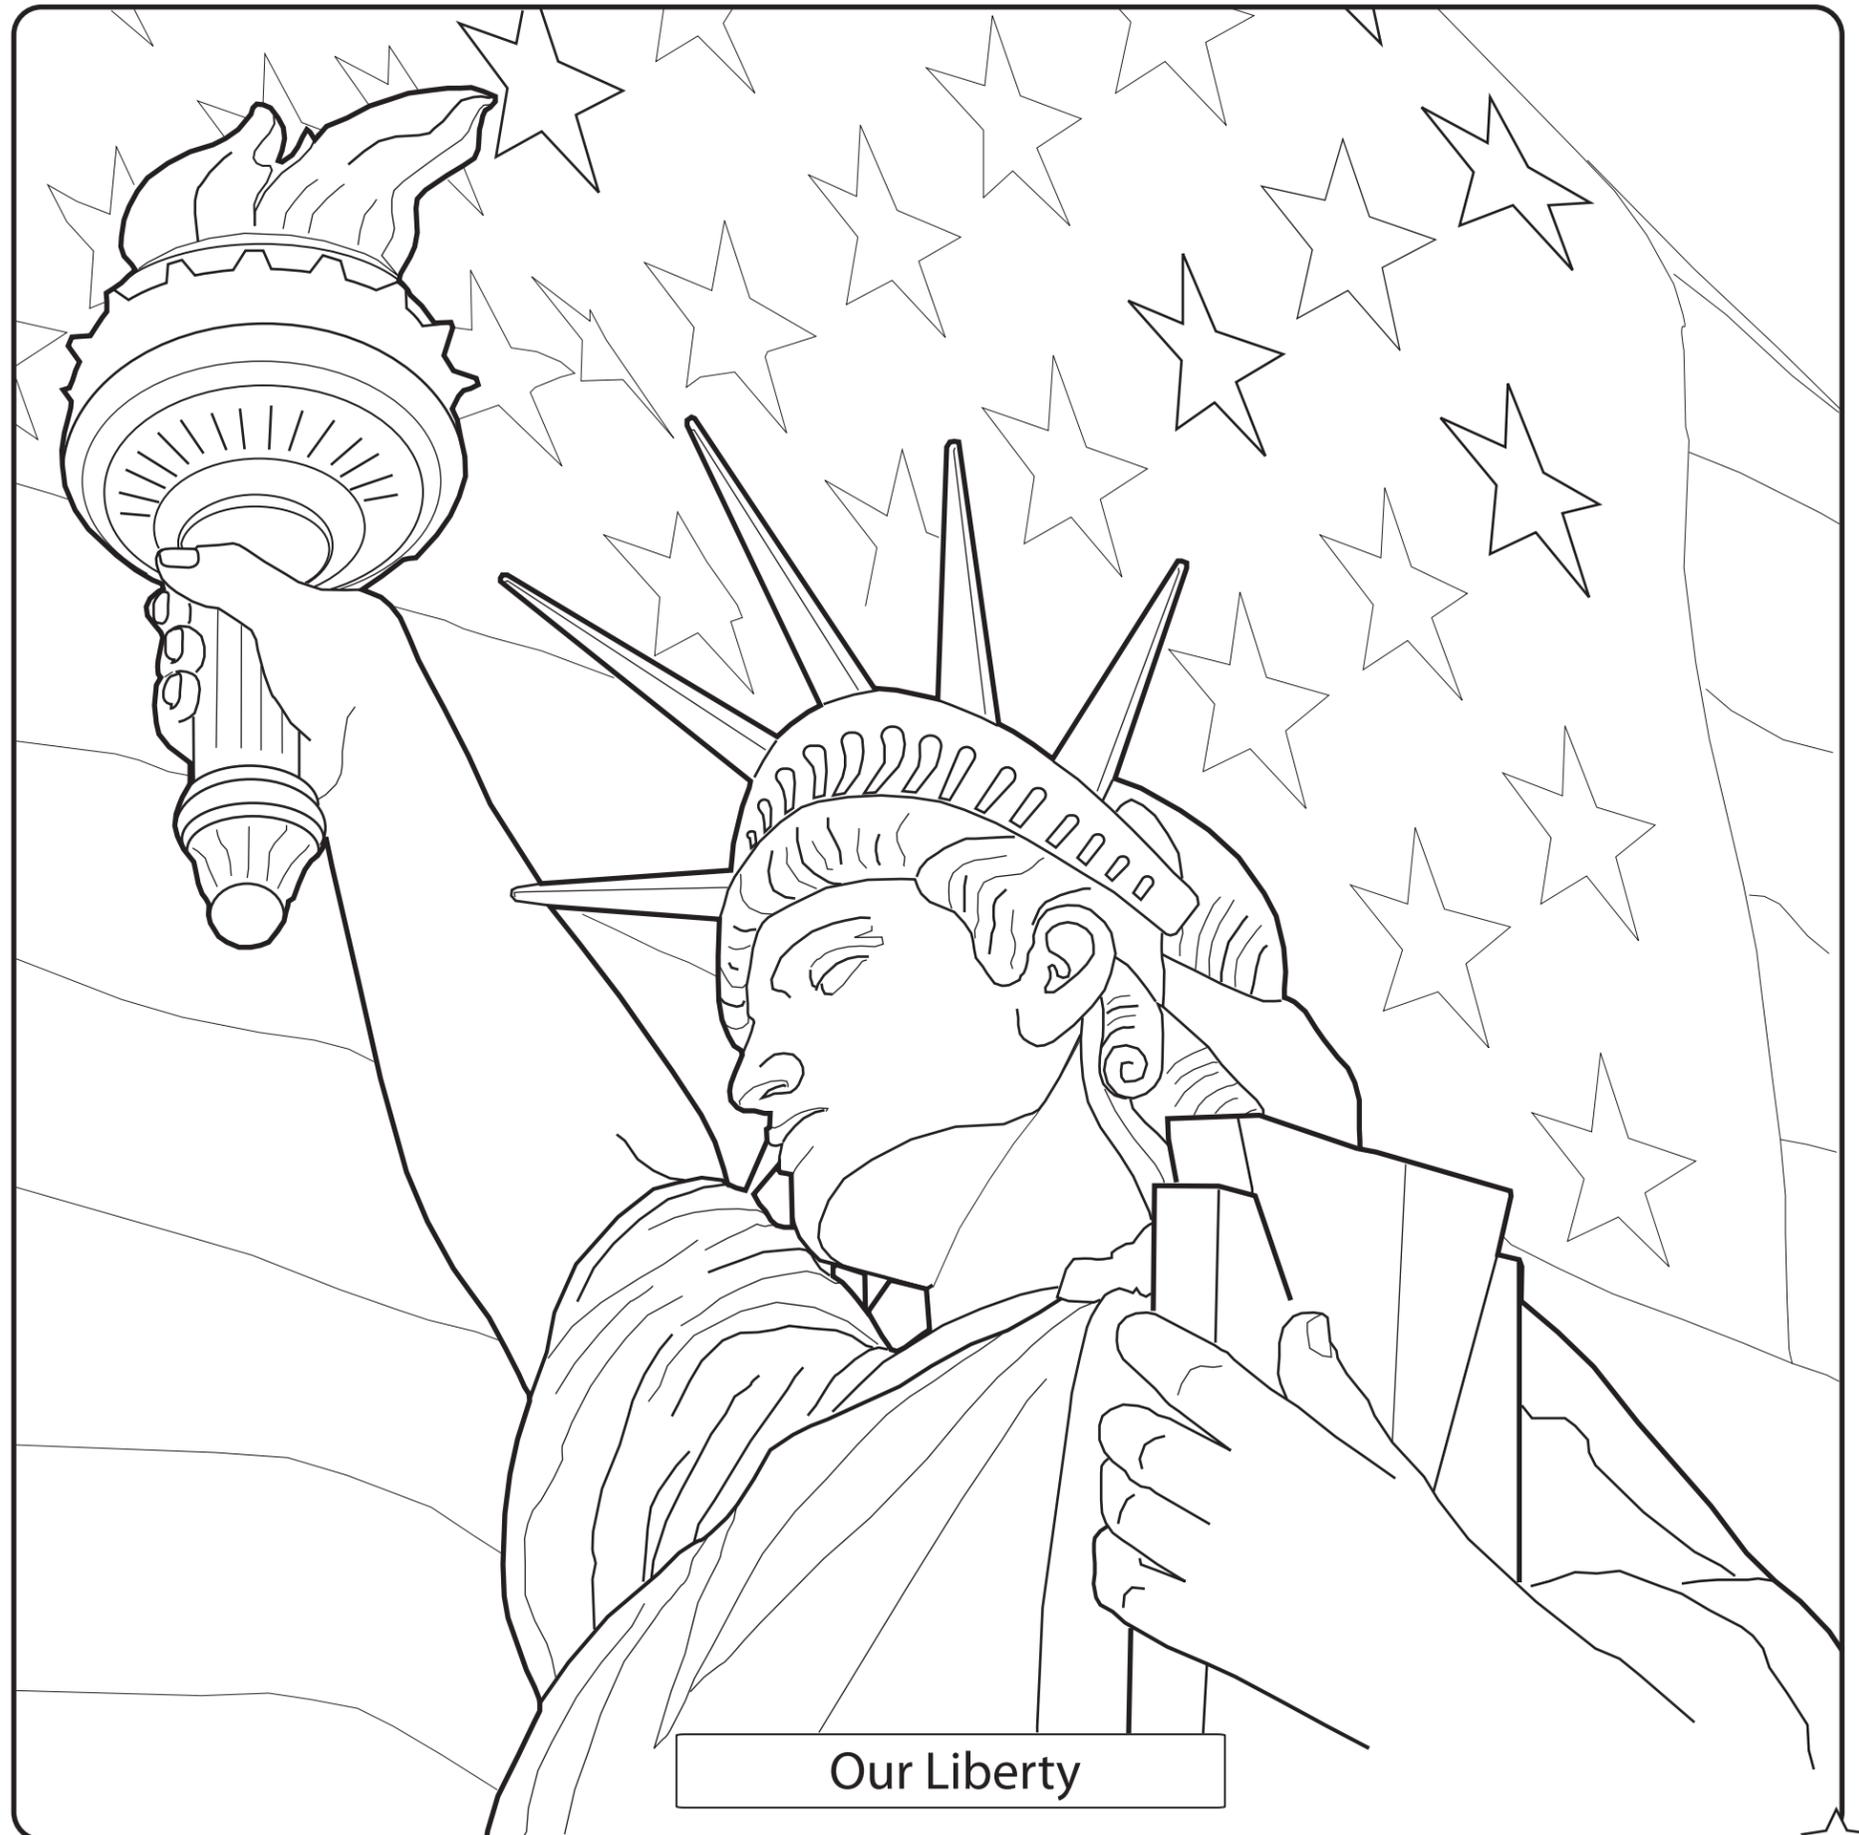

Our Military - attempt to calm the fear of the innocent, which may have been debilitating, perhaps for many years ~ and We, Society, are humbled by our Warriors - their perseverance. We are driven to ensure all are fully enveloped in our care; we note their incredible resilience. We are often awed, and though they may feel alone, we can help; if nothing else we can provide a comforting nod.

Our Society, yes, we owe our Military a debt, a debt which cannot be fully paid. Though we give what we may - a "thank you," a smile, an appreciative glance - and all the while we know we are blessed when we have the chance to extend some well-deserved, caring hands.

<http://www.ourmilitary.mil>

Story By: Kent D. Brickman and Jaylynn A. Richard
Illustration by: Steve Russell

Our Liberty