

“Everyone needs a little hand every now and then.”

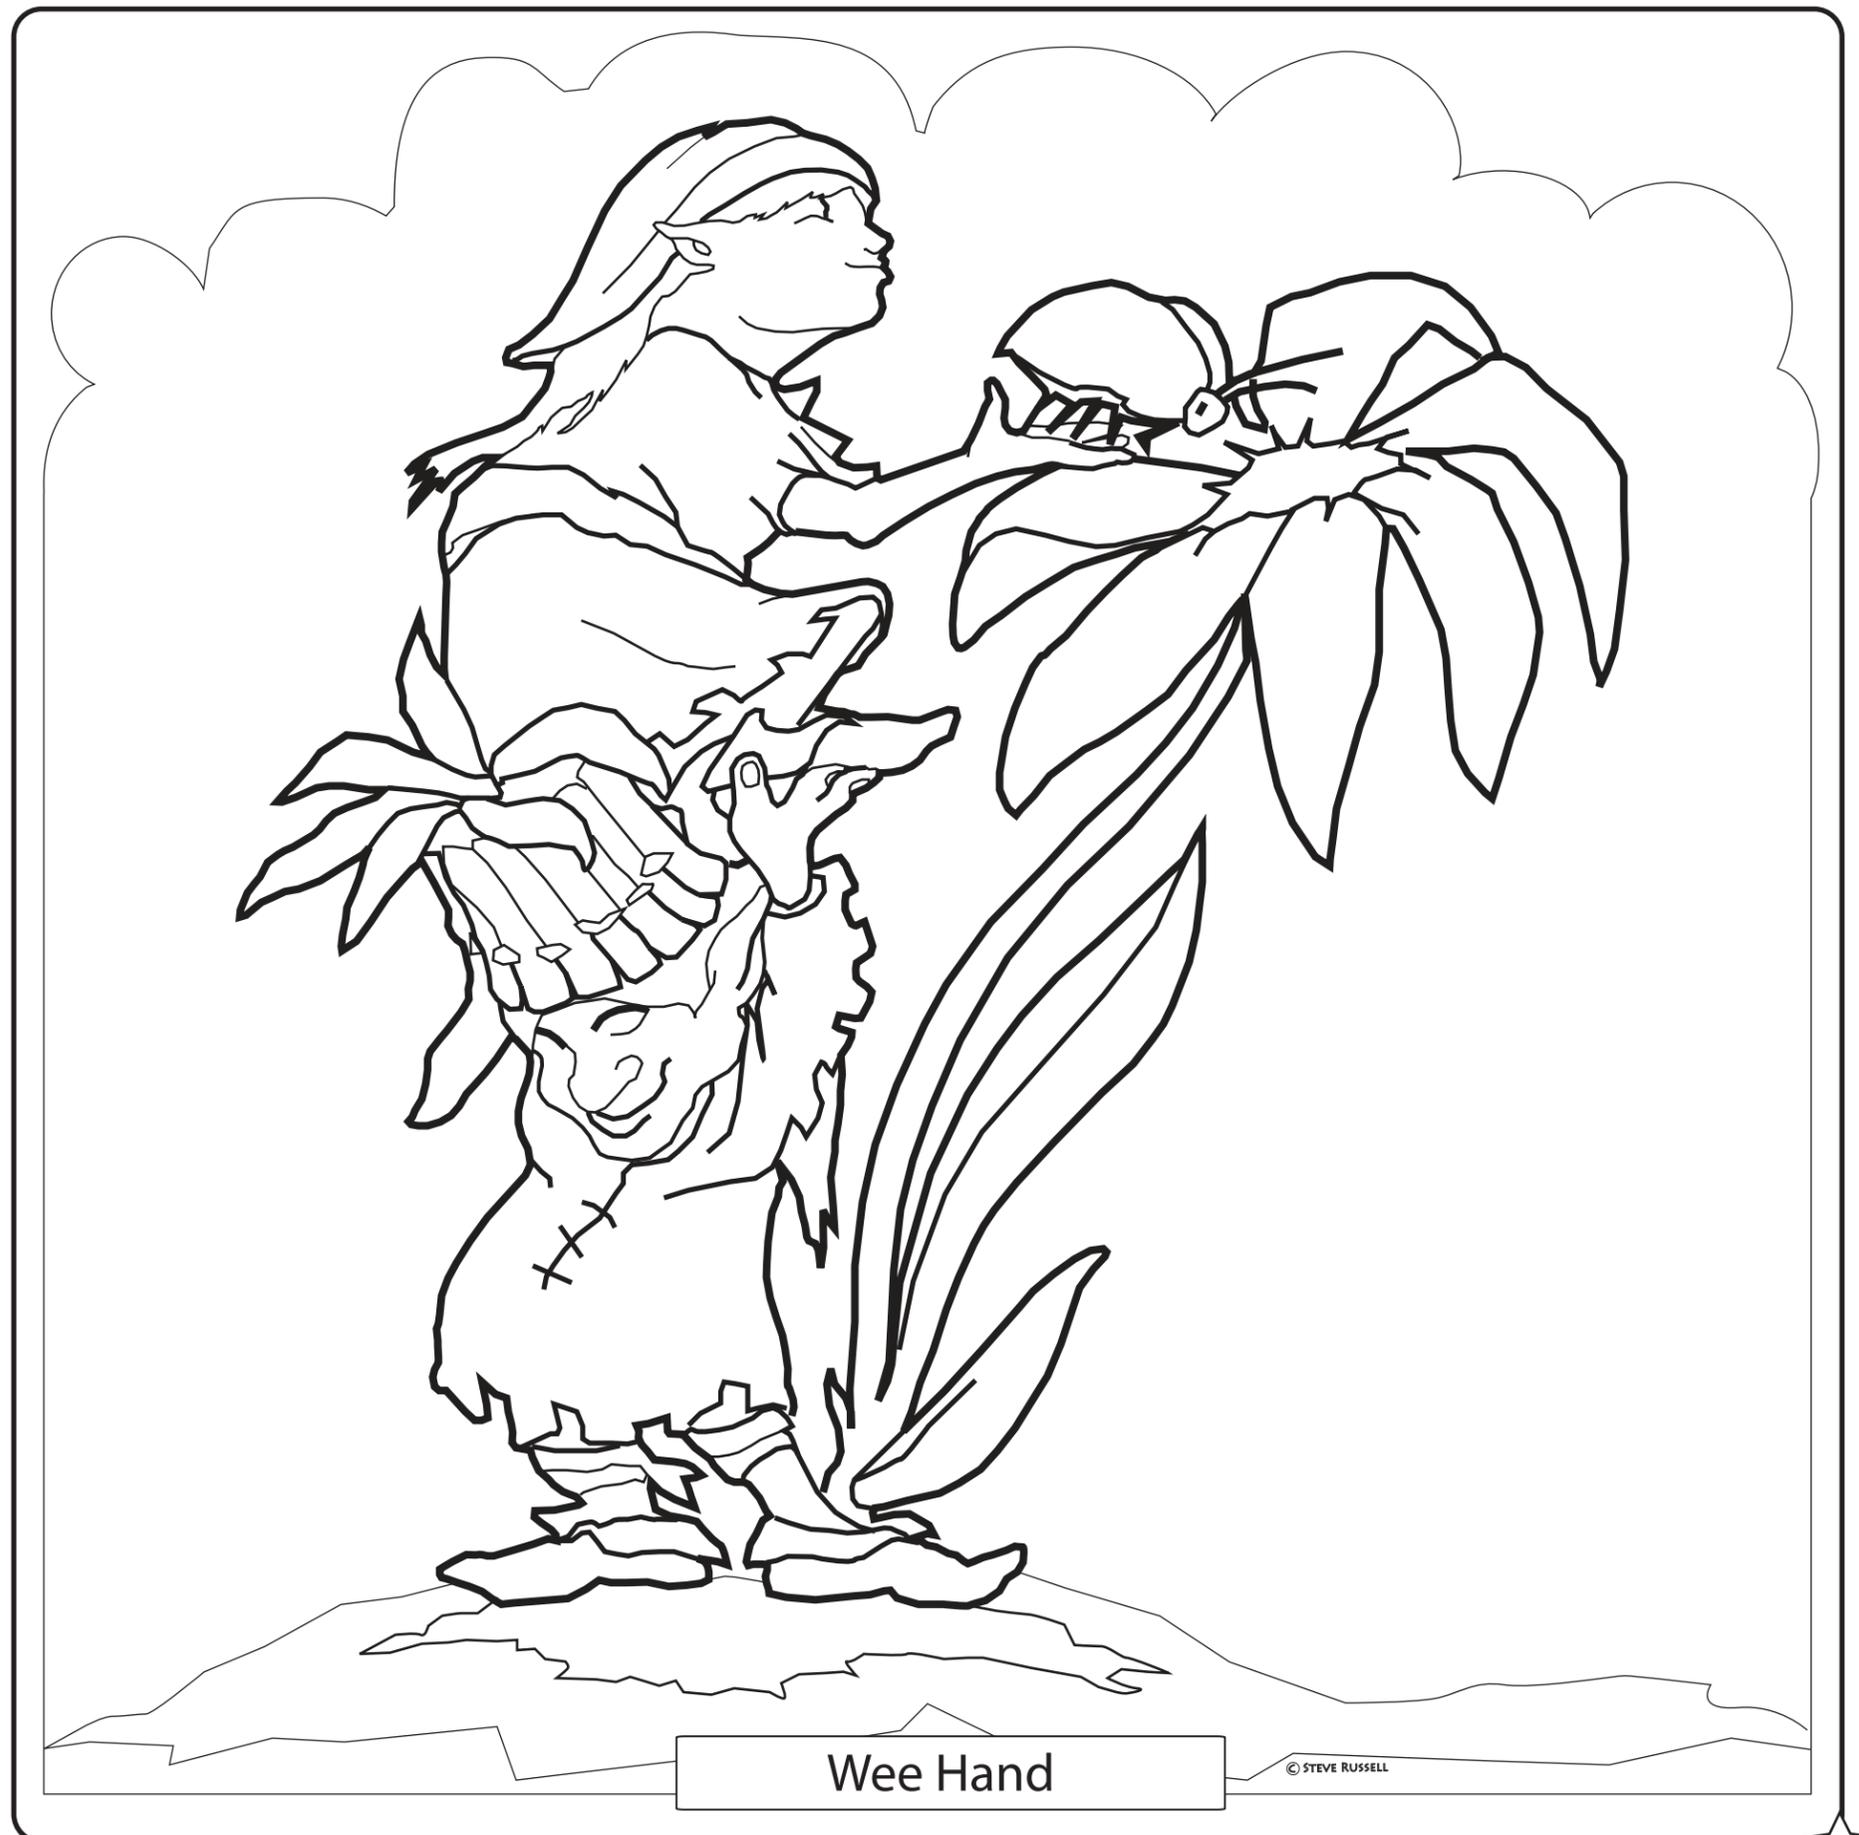

Did you know that the word “wee” means small? Wee hands can do lots of things – big or small. We all need a little help sometimes and that’s okay. We may need help in all sorts of ways. Some of the ways someone may need help are tying the laces on their shoes, doing homework, or crossing the street. What is important is that we can all help others, no matter how small the job may seem.

Helping out at home is a great way to start. We can prepare the table for meals or help with the dishes after we have eaten. We can take out the trash or try dusting the furniture in the house. Maybe we could rake leaves to keep the yard looking nice. We can tidy our room by picking up our clothes and toys and putting them away. Taking clothes or toys that we don’t use anymore to places for others is a nice thing to do too. Helping others really makes them feel better. We will feel good knowing we helped. Wee hands are helping hands. Remember – no matter how small the job may seem, everyone needs a little hand every now and then.

Illustration depicts “Spirit People” of Cherokee Lore

Story By: Donna Leon

Illustration by: Steve Russell for “The Majique Hollow” by the Sea.

Wee Hand

© STEVE RUSSELL